From Plantation Services

One of the largest undeveloped tracts between Charleston and Savannah is being sold.

The Hampton Stokes Field Club covers 7334 acres of woodlands, planted pines, fields, game plots and high bluffs along the Coosawhatchee River. The sale of 3654 acres has closed with the balance of 3680 acres set to close later this year. The buyers are represented by Holcombe, Fair and Lane. The seller, Chilton Land and Timber, LLC is represented by Plantation Services, Inc.

The entire property will be preserved through conservation efforts of The Nature Conservancy, the Open Space Institute and the State of South Carolina.

Plantation Services has offices in Albany, Georgia and Charleston, South Carolina. The firm has specialized in the sale of plantations and other rural property in the Southeast since 1959.
